

Driver Training Courses

Strategic Analytics Team driver training courses are all IVV Diamond accredited training courses and we can deliver these for you anywhere in the world for our clients.

Drivers are a key element of the highest risks that are faced by many businesses today and at SAT we not only recognise that risk but we have in place policies and strategies to help you reduce that risk, including driver training for light vehicles, heavy vehicles and buses, so no matter what class of vehicle you have we can provide you with some of the highest qualifies and experienced trainers to meet the needs of your business.

The courses are aimed to improve the driver's competency and standards, working with the driver to ensure that they have a better understanding of the vehicles and equipment that they are operating, other road users' awareness and how their actions impact onto those other users, helping your business improve its performance and reduce its risk levels.

In addition to our standard training courses, we are also able to offer mentoring services to our client's drivers, these can be one off sessions or could be part of an extended series to help you with a continuous improvement program and our head of training will be happy to discuss your individual requirements.
