

Train the Trainer Accredited courses

At SAT we believe that your driver training should meet strict standards and that those people who deliver the training should meet the highest standards. Driver training is not just about putting a trainer in a vehicle with one of your drivers, it's about driver behaviour, the use of the vehicle, the safety of the load – especially if its passengers and the process by which your business manages the risk of someone driving for business.

AS part of this SAT is a fully Global Accredited IVV Diamond Member, allowing us to provide you with trainers or run in house train the trainer courses that will enable you to have accredited trainers.

Our team has spent many years working in many different environments from fleet training in the UK to defensive driver training and train the trainer courses in some very remote hostile environments, including Afghanistan and Iraq. The courses and programs that they have developed are as a result of careful research, understanding of the science behind the behaviours and building upon an extensive knowledge base.

Train the trainer courses are designed to bring your staff up to a suitable and proficient standard where they can train and mentor the drivers in your business to meet the standards that we agree with you, linked to your company driving policy,

Your trainers qualified trainers will be accredited to a world renowned standard and we will reassess and audit them every two years. The courses are run at your company location anywhere in the world, provided that you can meet our training resource requirements and will take a minimum of 21 days.
